

RACE WAS WON
BY GERMANSWhose Balloon Dusseldorf
Sailed 1240 Miles

BEATING THE GERMANIA

It Is Feared That the America II Is Lost and That Her Two Passengers
Will Perish in the Canadian Woods.

St. Louis, Oct. 24.—The German balloon Dusseldorf with Gericke and Perkins as pilots won the international race, which was started from here last Monday, according to the revised figures. The Dusseldorf landed in Canada Saturday night, 1240 miles from St. Louis, beating the Germania by 40 miles. Perkins was wired from Kiskadee, Que., that if the America II, which went north from there, the crew undoubtedly perished in the wilderness.

Lewis Spindler, representative of the Aero club of St. Louis, left last night for Toronto, where he will organize a relief expedition to search for Allan R. Hawley, pilot, and Augustus Post, aide, and the missing balloon. The plan is to send one relief expedition to northern Ontario and Quebec while the other will scour Georgian bay region. Aero club officers believe that Hawley and Post are far beyond Georgian bay.

Montreal, Oct. 24.—It is the opinion of August Blancher, aide of the balloon Germania, that Allan R. Hawley and Augustus Post of New York, pilot and aide, respectively, of the America II, which left St. Louis last Monday and from whom no word has since been received, are fighting for their lives through the wilderness of northern Quebec.

Mr. Blankers arrived here Saturday from La Tuque, Que., some distance from the spot where the Germania landed on Wednesday. He and Capt. Hugo von Aberconer had a desperate time after coming to earth. They were thirty-two hours forcing their way through an unbroken forest to the railway line with only a few crusts of bread for sustenance. Their clothing was torn to shreds, and they were almost in a state of collapse when they struck the road.

There they met a construction gang and from them learned that a large yellow balloon preceded the Germania over practically the same route by half an hour.

The railroad men told Blankers that the other balloon was very high and maintained the same altitude until she passed out of sight toward the Ungava wilderness.

Mr. Blankers expressed the opinion that the balloon was the America II. The later report of the landing of the Dusseldorf II, in the same region explains to the satisfaction of many, the appearance of the first balloon, but Mr. Blankers has not changed his opinion.

Col. Theodore Chasick, pilot of the Helvetia, met Mr. Blankers here Saturday night after comparing notes found that the Germania had gone 100 miles farther than the Helvetia. The Dusseldorf II, according to unofficial records, exceeded the distance record of the Germania by about seventy miles.

AVIATORS MAY WITHDRAW.

Course Laid Out at Aviation Field Not Safe for Their Highpowered Machines.

Belmont Aviation Field, L. I., N. Y., Oct. 24.—Ideal weather prevailed today, the third day of the international aviation meet, yesterday's wind having died down. The foreign aviators object to the houses and trees below the course for the 100 kilometer race, the main event, and Latham and Buhlman may withdraw. They expected to try their new 100 horsepower engines, increasing the danger of a fall, and demand that the committee lay open a course where St. Louis when the team returned home, Wright racer, one of the smallest aeroplanes in the world, Garro's Gemosselle monoplane and Latham's 100 horsepower automobile will make their first flights this afternoon.

STEAM SOFTENED CEILING.

Seven Men Caught in Debris of Malden
Turkish Bath Parlor.

Malden, Mass., Oct. 24.—Caught beneath a mass of debris when the ceiling of the steam room collapsed, seven men who were enjoying a Turkish bath at the Russian Turkish bath parlor at 32 Suffolk street yesterday were badly injured. Six others who were in the room at the time saw the cracks appearing in the ceiling which fell upon the men as cement composition and about six inches in thickness. The noise of the falling cement, coupled with the cries of the seven, who were not able to get from under it as it fell, attracted a large crowd, and a rescue party headed by policeman James Burke, armed with implements of every description, dug the men out. Meanwhile a hurry call for ambulances had been sent in, and these arrived, together with a wagonload of police officers. The men all refused, however, to go to the hospital, and so were taken to their homes in ambulances.

The belief is that the steam had gradually softened the cement of the ceiling and thus caused the collapse.

FOOTBALL VICTIM.

Ralph Wilson Hurt on the Head in Game at St. Louis.

Crawfordville, Ill., Oct. 24.—Ralph Wilson, member of the Yabash college football team, who was injured in the game at St. Louis Saturday, died there yesterday, according to dispatches received here. Wilson was playing a game at halfback when he received a blow on the head. He was left in St. Louis when the team returned home, at his injuries were not thought to be fatal. Wilson was 19 years old and was playing his first year on the Yabash team. His home was in this city.

ATTEMPTED ASSASSINATION.

Commander-in-Chief of Cuban Army
Was Injured.

Havana, Oct. 24.—The attempted assassination Saturday night in front of the presidential palace of Major-General Phio Guerra, the commander-in-chief of the regular army, has caused a profound impression and great excitement. The general belief is that the crime was of a political character. The precise motive, however, is not clear.

General Guerra is now in the military hospital at Camp Columbia. His thigh bone is shattered, but the condition of the patient is favorable. The identity of his assailant is still doubtful. Immediately after the shooting, the sentry at the entrance of Puerca castle, which is within 300 feet of the palace, stopped a man who desired to enter, demanding to see General Montenegro, chief of the rural guard, of which Guerra is the headquarters. This man was handed over to the police. He proved to be Manuel Fernandez, a city patrolman, absent from duty without leave. He carried a revolver which had not been discharged. He denied all knowledge of the shooting.

On being confronted by General Guerra and a policeman, who had been shot while going to the general's assistance, neither was able to identify him. A pistol, still hot, of which four chambers had been discharged, was found in the roadway in front of Guerra's castle, and is believed to have been thrown away by the prisoner. One theory concerning the crime is that the assassin of General Guerra mistook him for General Riva, chief of police, against whom the man now under arrest had a grudge.

CARNEGIE APPEARED FEEBLE.

As He Walked Off Steamer On Return
From Scotland.

New York, Oct. 24.—Andrew Carnegie leaned heavily upon the arm of his secretary as he walked down the gangway of the White Star liner Baltic, on which he arrived yesterday from Europe. He did not relinquish his hold on the supporting arm until he entered a carriage to be driven to his Fifth avenue mansion, and in walking the length of the pier to the elevator, he displayed signs of fatigue.

Mr. Carnegie declared, however, that he felt splendidly and had enjoyed the voyage immensely. Mrs. Carnegie and Miss Margaret also returned on the Baltic.

"I haven't a thing interesting to say," said Mr. Carnegie to interviewers. "Anything about politics? Why, that would be the last thing I would do, talk politics now. No, no, not a word."

He added that he would remain in New York until next May, when he goes back to Scotland for his usual trip. "I am out of business," he said, "so I can say nothing on that score."

Fellow passengers said Mr. Carnegie did not appear often on deck, but on Saturday he joined with Judge George Gray of Delaware and Archbishop Roridan of San Francisco in acting as committee of deck sport.

The prince, who was a brother of Queen Mary, was born at Kensington palace in 1870, the late son of the late duke of Teck and the late Princess Mary Adelaide. He served in the army in Egypt and South Africa, retiring in 1902 with the title of major. He was fond of hunting.

ONE BALLOON STILL MISSING.

Searching Party Organized, Rumors Are Conflicting.

New York, Oct. 24.—It is rumored that the balloon America II, the last international race to be missing, landed in the wilds of Kiskadee, Que. A friend of pilot Hawley will aid the post in organizing a searching party. It is possible that the balloonists fell into lake Huron and were drowned or died in the Canadian wilds.

WOMAN HELD
AS SUSPECTMrs. Josephine Averill In Franklin County Jail

FOR HUSBAND'S DEATH

State's Attorney Johnson Is Looking Up
Evidence, and He Finds That She Bore None Too Good a Reputation.

St. Albans, Oct. 24.—During his investigation of the fatal shooting of Frank Averill, for which the victim's wife, Mrs. Josephine Averill, has been arrested, State's Attorney Johnson has questioned those in the neighborhood who knew the Averills. He has found that the Averills and Mrs. John Berg were together on the evening when Averill was shot. Mr. Averill spent the time churning, while Mrs. Averill and the Bergs took occasional drinks of hard cider. The Bergs say they left the Averills' house at about 8:30, and there were no signs of trouble then.

Mr. Berg says that his attention was later called to someone calling, and he traced the sound to the house of Frank West. They went to the West house and found Averill there wounded. Mrs. Averill was also there, and she kept saying to her husband: "It was an accident, wasn't it, Frank?" to which the injured man replied: "Yes, Josephine, it was an accident; you are not to blame."

It is said that when Mrs. Berg returned to the Averill house to get clothing for her husband, she found everything in confusion, whereas things were orderly when she had left there earlier in the evening. People say that Averill was a peaceable man and when his wife would swear at him he would pass it off lightly.

When arrested she collapsed for the first time since her husband's death, Friday evening, and she is at present in a very nervous condition. She refused to make any statement or to discuss the matter before her arrest. The three-year-old daughter is with her mother at the jail.

Mrs. Averill is about 40 years old and is a large Irish woman with considerable brouge. Her appearance is not prepossessing and she continues to say that her husband told the truth when he exonerated her before his death. The authorities, after an examination of the premises and the body of the dead man thought the arrest should be made.

Mr. Averill's body was taken from the undertaking rooms of J. F. Sullivan Saturday morning to Franklin, his former home, where the funeral took place at one o'clock Saturday afternoon. The body was accompanied to Franklin by the man's son by a former marriage and a cousin, William Steinhour, of Highgate.

KILLED IN THREE-STORY DIVE.

Domestic's Head Crushed by Mysterious
Fall from Window.

Eric, Pa., Oct. 24.—Ella Fothergill, 40 years, a domestic in the home of Joseph N. Wanner, this city, met a tragic death in a mysterious manner Saturday night. Miss Fothergill went to her room on the third floor about 11 p. m., and the Wanner family, too, had retired for the night. An hour later one of the family heard a tremendous thump on the tin roof of the porch on the rear of the second floor, and a moment later there was a thud in the yard, as if a body having fallen.

Glancing out of the window, Mr. Wanner saw a white object lying in the yard, and upon investigation he was horrified to find the body of the woman. Her face was almost flat from the force of the blow she had sustained in striking a hard cement pavement. A physician was summoned, who declared that death was instantaneous. The woman came here from Lykens two months ago.

The mortality among the insane at this asylum has been very high during the past two weeks, and a majority of all the patients have succumbed to the disease.

In Swift Current.

Calais, Me., Oct. 24.—John Dinmore, 45 years old, of Milwau, N. B., was drowned in the St. Croix river yesterday afternoon by the overturning of a boat. John Armstrong, Dinmore's companion, was rescued by the crew of a passing street car.

LIFE CRUSHED OUT
BY ELECTRIC CARJames H. Williams Killed in Burlington
Saturday Night—Motorman Says
He Did Not See the Man.

Burlington, Oct. 24.—James H. Williams of Walnut street was run over and almost instantly killed by an electric car on the lower road to Winslow Saturday night. The motorman of the car, Amos Brockway, says he did not see Williams on the track.

The last seen of Williams alive was in the pool room at the junction of North Winslow street and North Willard street about eight o'clock, a half hour before he was killed. He then announced his intention of going over to Winslow to see some friends. How he happened to be on the track or why he did not get out of the way of the car will probably never be known. He had not been feeling well during the day, and it may be that he fainted and was lying on the track. The first known of the accident by those on the car was when a jar was felt and a crunching noise was heard. It was supposed by the crew that a limb from a tree had been run over and in the darkness Conductor Henry Granger went back to remove the obstruction. It was the following car would not strike it, when he stumbled on Williams, who was still living.

One of the passengers on the car ran at once to the junction of Winslow street and North Willard street, where he notified police officer Gorman, who telephoned police headquarters. Chief Russell sent in an ambulance call and also telephoned Mrs. E. K. Jackson, acting health officer in the absence of Dr. C. F. Dalton, and F. E. Clark, who lost no time in getting out there. Before the ambulance could arrive, however, the physicians found that the injured man was dead, and an undertaker's wagon was sent for instead.

Upon examination of the body, it was found that the spine and eight or nine ribs were broken, that the liver was ruptured and that the left arm and right leg were badly crushed, indicating that a wheel had passed over the man. The man's head was uninjured and a stiff hat which he wore was not damaged. His coat was thrown over his head, either by the force of the blow or before the accident.

The body was removed at once to Corbin's undertaking rooms and yesterday an autopsy was performed by Dr. R. H. Stone, R. D. Adams and F. K. Jackson, in an effort to find the man's condition before his death. It is known that he was not feeling well when he left home a few hours earlier, as he was complaining of stomach trouble.

Williams was 28 years old and unmarried. He lived with his parents on Walnut street and leaves, besides his parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. H. Williams, one brother, Nelson Williams of this city. He had been working nights in the woolen mill at Winslow. The funeral will be held Tuesday morning at nine o'clock from St. Joseph's church.

BAD FIRE IN SHERBORN.

Several Buildings Are Destroyed in Center of Town.

Boston, Oct. 24.—Fire which destroyed a dwelling house, a large shop, a barn and badly damaged another dwelling, threatened a thickly settled portion of Sherborn last night, and was only checked when the men and children in the neighborhood formed themselves into a bucket brigade to fight the flames.

There is no water supply in the town other than wells, and it was to these that the residents had recourse as the only means of coping with the blaze. Mounted on ladders and stationed on nearby roofs, the men kept the neighboring buildings wet down, thus keeping the sparks from spreading further destruction.

The blaze originated in the two-story frame dwelling of Frew Town on Linden court, spread to the hydraulic pump manufacturing of David W. Daniels, then to the barn adjoining. All three buildings are a total loss. The flames then attacked the Daniels' dwelling, but here they were checked, after doing considerable damage. The loss is estimated at more than $7,000.

WOMAN BADLY BURNED.

Tried to Throw Kettle of Burning Lard
Out of Doors.

Rutland, Oct. 24.—Mrs. William H. Nott of Pine street was seriously burned with hot lard Saturday night. She placed the kettle of lard on the stove and went into the house and upon her return found it all afire. With the assistance of a stove poker she attempted to throw it out of doors. It struck the side of the house, spilled the grease over her clothing and set her dress on fire. She cried for help and Joseph Tetreau, who happened to be near by, responded and succeeded in extinguishing the flames.

Her right arm and shoulder and left arm and hand were severely burned, so much that the flesh was separated from the bone in places. Her eyebrows were burned off and the front of her hair was all burned.

St. Albans, Oct. 24.—The sheriff's office has been busy the past few days trying to locate a 15-year-old girl, Abbie Robar, who ran away from her home in Keeseville, N. Y., a week ago. A girl was traced in this direction by her father, who, with Sheriff Holmes, searched the city Saturday and finally located her at the Central house, where she was working as a table girl. After a heart to heart talk with her father, the girl agreed to go home and will leave for there today.

GRANITE BUSINESS DULL.

Firms in West Concord, N. H., Are Cutting Out Workmen.

West Concord, N. H., Oct. 24.—The condition of the granite business remains unchanged and is unusually dull for this season of the year. One firm alone has reduced its working force by over 100 men. "The contractors say that there is work in sight, but the parties are not quite ready to put it in the market and ask for figures. Many of the quarries are taking advantage of the quiet season to clear and get the quarries in shape for new business which they look for before long.

SHOT IN THE LEG.

Winslow Man Doesn't Know How He Got the Wound.

Winslow, Oct. 24.—Napoleon Brosseau, a loom fixer in the American Woolen company's mill, was shot in the right leg Saturday evening about 6:30 o'clock. How, is the question, and he is unable to answer. He says he was going along Union street to his home, when he happened to feel a pain in his leg. He began to tremble, weakened, fell to the ground and gave a cry. He picked himself up and went to Dr. Thabault's office on the corner of Main and Union streets, where the wound was dressed. Dr. Thabault probed for the bullet, but could not locate it. The bullet struck him in the shin, grazed the leg about two inches and entered the flesh.

Mr. Brosseau cannot account for the shooting, as he says he did not hear any report of the shot and was walking along alone. His only explanation is that it was a stray bullet. When asked if he had had any quarrel with anyone, he said he had not. He was on the streets yesterday afternoon, and while walking he does not seem to suffer much pain; but as soon as he stops, sitting or standing, he suffers great pain.

$10,000 FIRE.

Enfield, Mass., Had a Hard Time Late Yesterday.

Enfield, Mass., Oct. 24.—Handicapped by the absence of the engineer of the town's only fire engine, Enfield fought a threatening blaze in its business section late yesterday that wrecked two large wooden structures, causing a loss estimated at between $15,000 and $25,000.

The Haskell building, a two-story wooden block, was practically destroyed, and the Howe block adjoining, was considerably damaged before aid from Springfield checked the further spread of the flames. The fire started in the upper floor of the Haskell building from some unknown cause, and gained headway owing to the inability of any of the townspeople to get the fire engine to work properly in the absence of the regular engineer.

Charles B. Haskell and Edwin Howe, owners of the two structures, suffered the heaviest losses.

CRANDALL POST, C. A. R. DONATES

$200 Toward Erection of Soldiers' Monument in Barre.

Mayor Mutch has received notification from the members of the C. A. R. Crandall post, Grand Army of the Republic, that after the bugle call, to consider the communication sent to them by the mayor for the erection of a soldiers' monument of Barre granite in the city of Barre, the order be given to be ready "to present and fire," the result showing an appropriation of $200, being a little band of veterans, for a soldiers' monument. This is a remarkable showing for that little band of men we are all accustomed to see climbing up to Elmwood cemetery every Decoration day to decorate the graves of their old comrades, and shows that they have neither lost interest in the deeds of our soldiers nor in the welfare of our city.

GRANITE RATES MAY BE COMPROMISEDSeward W. Jones Met Interstate Commerce Commissioner Prouty and Representatives of Railroads in Washington Saturday.

A Washington, D. C., dispatch to the Boston Globe yesterday, gives the interesting information that the efforts of granite men to secure better railroad rates may result in a compromise. The dispatch is as follows: "There is a prospect that the controversy over railroad rates on granite and other stone from New England to the South will be compromised, as was done with the New England milk rate. Interstate Commerce Commissioner Prouty held a conference today with Seward W. Jones of Boston, representing the granite producers, and attorneys and traffic officials of the New Haven, L. & N. and other southern railroads. "An understanding was reached that the granite producers and the railroads should agree upon a schedule of rates, which should then be filed with the commission. If the commission approves the rates they will go into effect after 30 days. If not the case will have to be tried.
